The lady that built your house, Philipina Blum, was the widow of Joseph Blum. There is some connection between Joseph Blum and Henry Rosenberg (philanthropist that left money to the city for library, Victory memorial at 25th and Broadway, drinking fountains for man and beast, etc.) The 1860 census records Joe Blum residing in the home of Henry Rosenberg. When Joe, as he was known, died in 1883, Henry Rosenberg took out a notice in the paper that his banking house would be closed out of respect for Mr. Blum, who was a clerk at Sonnentheil & Lion, a dry goods store that sold clothing.

Phillipina, Joe's widow, owned lot 9 of that block before Joe died. She bought lot 8 (where your house is) in 1886, after the big fire, and then built your house, and the front house (2002 Ave K) for use as tenant property. In between was a small two-story structure with two rooms on the second floor for servants.

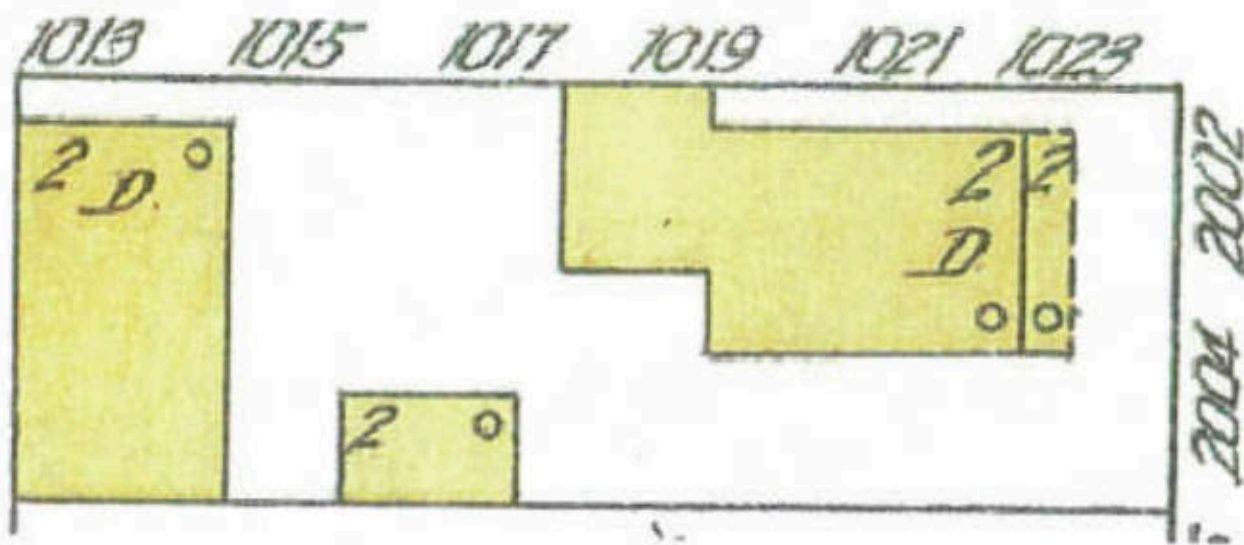

1885 Sanborn Map of lot 8 (and 9) prior to 1885 Fire. The building noted as "461" is where 1015 20th is today. The building noted as "236" is Phillipina and Joe Blum's residence.

Phillipina's father was Michael W. Shaw. He was a jeweler and his jewelry store here in Galveston was the first jewelry store in the state of Texas. <https://tshaonline.org/handbook/online/articles/fsh45>

SHAW, MICHAEL W. (1833–1923).

Michael W. Shaw, founder of the first jewelry store in Texas, was born on November 28, 1833, at Lampertheim on the Rhine, in Hesse, Germany. In 1845 the Shaw family arrived in Galveston, Texas, searching for new opportunities. Shaw's sister, Mary, married Daniel H. Pallais, a Galveston master watchmaker. In 1848 Shaw went to live with his brother-in-law to learn the jeweler's business and in 1855, after acquiring considerable proficiency, opened the Shaw Jewelry Company on the corner of Twenty-third and Strand. Shaw's company flourished until the Civil War, which temporarily put a halt to his young business and depleted his savings. After serving in De Bray's cavalry in the Confederate Army and Col. John C. Moore's Second Texas Infantry, Shaw returned to Galveston to rebuild his company. The business prospered, and the jeweler found himself on his way to fortune again, until another disaster—a great fire in 1869—devastated the Shaw store. Shaw then rebuilt the jewelry company in 1869 on the corner of Tremont and Market. In 1872 the quarters were expanded, and by 1880 Shaw's reputation extended throughout the Southwest. The company trade extended into a large part of Louisiana, all of Texas, and part of Mexico. Shaw manufactured many of his goods from raw materials and also carried the best imported lines from Paris and a large domestic stock from New York. The Shaw Company made Shaw a wealthy man, with investments that included a large part of the Montezuma silver mines in New Mexico. Gen. Sam Houston ordered his walking cane from Shaw, who engraved and studded it with bits of silver. Shaw was vice president of the Galveston Trust and Savings Company, a director of the Peoples Land and Homestead Company, and one of the first members of the Galveston Artillery Company, having become associated with it in 1856. In 1878 he married Annie Meyer of Houston; they had eight children. Shaw died on May 9, 1923, and his jewelry store continued in business in Galveston until 1938.

Final notes and summary of house information submitted by Jami Durham

1015 20th Street

North half of lot 8, block 140

Built 1886 by Mrs. Phillipina (or Phillipine) Blum for use as tenant property.

Description on 1897 Insurance Record: 2-story frame building with metal roof containing 7 rooms, 2 halls, 2 closets, 1 bathroom and 2 brick chimneys to ground.

Phillipina was born in Germany on 18 August 1845. The Shaw family came to Galveston in 1845. Phillipina was one of eight children born to Michael W. Shaw and Annie Meyer. In 1855, Michael opened the first jewelry store in Texas, here in Galveston on the corner of Strand and 23rd.

Phillipina married Joseph Blum in Galveston on 19 May 1868. (GS Film #1008865, Digital Folder #00470571). The record notes Phillipina's last name as Bruch, so this was her second marriage. No information could be found about her union with Bruch.

Joseph Blum was born 16 December 1838 in Nastall, Switzerland. The 1860 census for Galveston County notes Joe Blum residing with Henry Rosenberg, the philanthropist who bequeathed the city the funds for a library and drinking fountains for "man and beast." The 1880 city directory notes Blum's occupations as a clerk in a clothing store, Sonnentheil & Lion, on 23rd Street between Market and Postoffice Streets. Joe and Phillipina owned lot 9 of block 140, where they resided prior to Joe's death on 20 July 1883. A notice in the Galveston Daily News on 22 July 1883 informed readers that Mr. Rosenberg's bank would be closed that day out of respect for Joe Blum. Clearly a connection existed between Blum and Rosenberg.

On 3 January 1886, the real estate transfers in the Galveston Daily News note the sale of lot 8 of block 140 to Phillipina Blum. She purchased the lot from Mrs. Babette Levy. She had two houses built immediately after, noted by improvements on the lot totaling $2500, recorded in 1887. The houses replaced the existing structures destroyed by the 1885 Fire (13 November 1885) which destroyed over 40 blocks of the city. (The 1885 Sanborn Map records two dwellings and a corner store on the lot.) The two houses Phillipina built in 1886 included the larger house facing Avenue K, 2002 Avenue K (extant) and a smaller house on the north end of the lot, 1015 20th. Both of the houses were used as rental property, generating income for the widowed Phillipina.

The 1910 census records Phillipina living with her sister and brother-in-law, Henry and Anna Schafer, at 1909 Avenue J (Broadway). By 1920, Phillipina has married again, to William D. Schillinger. The census and city directories record the couple residing at 1012 19th Street. The 1920 census also reveals Edward and Mary Tiernan residing at 1015 20th Street. The census notes that the Tiernans own the house. A search of ancestry.com reveals Mary Tiernan's maiden name as Shaw. Her father was Frank Shaw, Phillipina's brother. No real estate transfer was found in the newspaper, noting the sale of the property by Phillipina to the Tiernans. It's possible she gifted the house to her niece and nephew-in-law.

Phillipina Blum Schillinger died at the Letitia Rosenberg Home for aged Women, on 25th and Avenue O ½, in Galveston, on 10 August 1930. She is buried in Evergreen Cemetery on Broadway. Phillipina's family maintained ownership of 1015 20th Street until the 1970s, both occupying it themselves at times and using it as rental property during other times. After the family sold the house, ownership has changed three times before purchased by the current owner.

AN ANONYMOUS NOVEL,

THE BREAD-WINNERS,

Begins in the August number of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE. The scene is laid in one of the western lake cities, before and during the great Labor Riots. The story is full of action, and abounds in local descriptions and social studies, which heighten the interest and continually pique curiosity as to its authorship.

Stray Notes.

The street cars are now running on Twenty-second street to Straud. The return to the old arrangement was made yesterday.

The banking house of H. Rosenberg was closed yesterday after midday, in respect to the memory of Mr. Joe Blum.

It is understood that all the bar-rooms and places of resort in the city will be closed to-day.

It is reported that the pumping work on the bar is very nearly completed.

The Painters union is reported to have broken up. Many of the painters have gone back to work at the old prices.

Additional e-mail information from Jami Durham explaining most likely why the house was built

Your house was built in 1886, at the same time the house on the south end of the lot was built (2002 Ave K). Both were built as tenant property. This entire area was devastated by a fire that started on Friday, the 13th of November, 1885. Originating at 16th and Mechanic, the fire was fueled by a north wind, burning a four-block wide strip of land that crossed Broadway and didn't stop until it reached Avenue O, between 19th and 20th Streets. I'm attaching the fire damage map, too. This fire destroyed almost 600 houses and buildings, and left approximately 1500 people homeless, thus the need for tenant houses, such as yours and the one on the south end of the block, arose. The insurance record we have on your house is dated 1897. At that time, the two tenant houses were owned by Mrs. P. Blum. The 1896-1897 Galveston City Directory identifies her as Mrs. Phillipina Blum, the widow of Joseph Blum, residing at 1909 Broadway. The 1884-1885 city directory records Phillipina residing on Avenue K, between 20th and 21st.

OVER A MILE OF TERRITORY BURNED OVER.

GALVESTON, Texas, Nov. 13.—At 1:40 o'clock this morning the most destructive fire in the history of Galveston broke out in a small foundry and car-repairing shop on the north side of avenue A, known as the Strand, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets.

A fierce gale from the north was blowing at the time and the flames spread with lightning rapidity to both adjoining buildings, one being a grocery store and the other an humble dwelling. In a twinkling the long fiery tongues had crossed the street and two more dwellings were in flames, the people barely escaping with their lives and clothes. In 1888 a Lady Board of Managers was formed for the purpose of maintaining a residence for aged women who could not properly care for themselves. Henry Rosenberg saw this effort as filling a pressing need in Galveston, and provided in his will for the erection of a permanent structure for the use of the home, given in memory of his first wife Letitia. The building was dedicated in 1896.

The Home operated under the original structure until 1970, when it was merged with The Moody House.

MRS. M. B. QUINN AND FAMILY

In Memoriam

IN loving memory of Mrs. Phillippine
Blum Schillinger.

Mourn not for her who calmly lies
By God's own hand composed to rest.
For, hark! A voice from yonder sky
Proclaiming her blest—supremely blest.
With her the toil and strife are o'er,
Her labors end, her sorrows cease;
For she has gained the blissful shore
Where dwells serene, eternal peace.

Drop the warm tear—for Jesus wept;
Sorrow shall find relief in tears,
But let no secret grief be kept
To waste the soul, through nameless years.

She rests in hope; her hallowed dust
Is watched and from the grave shall rise.
Earth shall restore her sacred trust,
Made all immortal for the skies.

MRS. W. H. OWEN,

Something About the Home.

The Lathrop Roosevelt home last evening was formally turned over to the management by the executors of the estate of the late Henry Roosevelt last night. This beautiful new home occupies lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the southwest block of section 6, situated on Lathrop avenue, between avenues O₂ and 1st. The building was open with electric lights last night, people wandered through the rooms and up and down the stairs and talked to the thirteen new old ladies all logged up in their best silk and tulle.

He has assumed the part of all the acts of human kindness, every form of beauty and truth, as the basis of all, and has made of our world in which all other things seem to blend like the sound of a grand organ. It is here in the bottom of our hearts, our minds, our souls.

"The African Lovers Henry Hammons for his fatherly care and for making made the possible; the gifted boy chants his praise unadornedly and associates his name with the better preparation that he has given him for life's battle; the younger man, in the midst of life's struggle knows him as he came ashore from the island into which he was cast to struggle; he people are deeply grateful for the light of knowledge that a magnificent noble Henry will soon shed over this community; the devoted churchman is constantly reminded of his sanctimony by the beauty of the temple in which he worships; even the dumb animals will echo in his praise as they shake their thirst at his fountain, for it is here, my friends, here, in this lovely home, that he has founded the noblest chord of all.
